

Flawless Facilitation

For those who want the best from others

"Many many thanks for all your help & in particular for the two sessions that you did at our offices. Keep up the excellent work"

Because we believe in "walking the talk", the whole workshop is run as a facilitated event. It would be wrong if it didn't.

So you won't see any Death by PowerPoint!

Just interactive exercises and highly energetic methods being used. Some fairly innovative ones to inspire you further.

- The Seven Stages of a Workshop
- Essential preparation
- Clarifying/defining objectives
- Gathering different viewpoints
- Group discussions
- Brainstorming techniques
- Handling challengers
- Reaching consensus

"All credit to your methodology which I know the delegates found most refreshing indeed."

Today's knowledgeable workers have so much more to contribute. Given the opportunity, these people can help organisations move forward in this highly competitive world.

Gone are the days when these valuable workers will be told what to do - do that and they'll walk away. They want to be involved and challenged. Facilitating meetings and events is a step towards that goal.

Managers are increasingly changing from a directive mode to a facilitative mode. Coaching is taking hold in many businesses and the empowered results this brings are showing themselves in greater productivity and profits.

This workshop shows you how you can master the art of facilitation, thus bringing out the best from your people and motivating them to contribute and be part of the company's objectives and goals. Very inspirational and expected from the 21st Century Knowledge worker.

Book your event now to ensure massive results from all your meetings
